Mayor supports health month

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally recently gave her nod of support to Gov. James Blanchard, who officially declared October as Health Month.

McAnally said "the future of the city and the country lies in the hands of the youth as the 21st century approaches." The mayor said she recognizes the primary health care needs of the adolescents of the state.

Child Health Day has been celebrated on Oct. 1 since 1928 under a joint resolution of Congress. This October, the focus is on "Adolescent Health: Links to the Future."

The Romulus Adolescent Health Center has been involved with organizing several events focusing on health needs and concerns of teen-agers. The Minor Crisis Teen Theatre Troupe performed Oct. 9 at Romulus High School, where members helped students see effects of substance abuse through an improvised discussion.

On Oct. 23, the center will be administering measles, mumps and rubella vaccines at Romulus Junior High School.

There is an open house scheduled at the center between 10:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Oct. 25.

Romulus High School students are also getting involved with the Health Center. There are plans under way for drama students to script and produce an ad for the center to be aired on area cable TV stations.

Dr. Natalia Tanner, the center medical director, will be writing a monthly column for the high school paper, the Eagle Press. Art students are planning a mural for the walls of the center.

The Romulus Adolescent Health Center offers medical and counseling services for Romulus residents aged 11 to 21 years old, students and non-students.

Company expresses concerns about city groundwater

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus councilmembers listened to officials from Bestway Recycling Oct. 8 on ways to prevent ground water contamination, in case it occurs in the city.

Bob Ryan, representative from Bestway Recycling, described the importance of an underground injection system, which is used today by the petroleum industry, chemical industry, food and product manufacturing companies and many local small specialty plants and retail establishments.

Bestway officials poured out facts on drinking water, including:

- 50 percent of drinking water nationwide comes from water found underground in rock, sand or gravel.
- 75 percent of cities derive all or part of their water from underground sources.
- Daily use has increased from 34 billion gallons in 1950 to more than 90 billion gallons a day.

It is this long-term confinement that makes deep-well disposal an environmentally sound waste disposal method.

Bestway officials said about 100 quadrillion gallons of ground water is usable. But there is a problem of potential ground contamination, according to Bestway officials.

In the 1970s, legislation was passed to regulate waste disposal into the water, air and landfills which brought about the importance of using underground injection. Bestway officials said. At least 20 to 30 million barrels of salt water are brought to the surface, along with oil, and then reinjected deep underground each day.

Bestway officials said even though there are regulations on waste disposal, the city should be aware of what could happen if there is a ground water contamination and what can be done.

Injection, as a form of getting rid of waste, means there is penetration many thousands of feet below the surface of the earth into rock formations, where the waste can't contaminate underground sources of drinking water.

Bestway officials said the suitability of the disposal method really depends on the availability of underground rock formations that have the natural ability to accept and confine the wastes.

"It is this long-term confinement that makes deep-well disposal an environmentally sound waste disposal method," officials said.

Cable company under attack

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus residents who are fed up with constant cable outages and poor reception may see a clearer picture in the near future.

Councilmembers recently instructed city attorneys, Meso T. Hammoud and Barry A. Seifman, to write a letter to Lisa Boland, general manager of Omnicom Cablevision in Canton, urging the cable company to get the glitches out of the lines.

Omni-com's constant outages and poor reception within the city have become a problem of major proportions. Such not only deprives city residents of the benefits of their bargain, but it also deprives them of the right to be informed and keep in touch," the attorneys said.

The attorneys stressed the importance for Omni-com renters in Romulus to be able to watch news events and their favorite programs at any time. "For these people, television is not a luxury. It is a necessity that informs them of the many events that may affect their lives.

Omni-com must take all reasonable measures to ascertain that cable problems will not deprive Romulus citizens of the opportunity to be witnesses to important world events," the attorneys said.

Boland said Monday she did receive the letter, but was a bit confused as to what Romulus officials wanted done.

"Unfortunately, they didn't give me any information on when the cable was going out. I need to find out more information, details, before I can do anything," Boland said.

City Clerk Linda Choate said one of the problems with cable is it doesn't go off at the same time in the city. She also said there have been a number of outages.

Councilmember Jimmie Raspberry said at a recent council meeting the cable goes blank hours at a time during the day.

Heating costs to be increased

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Staff Writer

Wayne County residents may have to pay about 1.2 percent more for heating their homes this winter.

Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. officials said they want to increase annual rates by about $13 million for 1990-1991.

The rate hike awaits approval from the Michigan Public Service Commission, which approves rate increases by MichCon.

Mary Jo Kunkle, public information specialist for the commission, said MichCon is merely looking to increase rates in order to keep up with inflation. Kunkle said MichCon is tied to the Consumer Price Index, which allows for an annual increase.

The increase is based on a 10.59 percent change in the CPI between September 1988 and August 1990.

On April 12, the commission approved use by MichCon of an operating incentive plan and a performance incentive plan. These two plans allow MichCon to increase or decrease its gas rates based on changes of the CPI and the financial results of its operations, Kunkle said.

Residents can fight the increase by attending the public hearing Nov. 5 at the Michigan Public Service Commission building, 6545 Mercantile Way, Suite 7, Lansing.

Kunkle said anyone wishing to make a statement at the hearing has to file an appearance, which means advising the presiding Administrative Law Judge at the hearing about the statement.

Airport referendum to be decided

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP Staff Writer

Residents will decide on Nov. 6 whether or not a $100 million bond should be allocated for the expansion of Metro Detroit Airport.

The referendum is appearing on the ballot because of a lot of leg work from one local citizens group, Citizens Against Aircraft Noise and Pollution.

The group, which hopes the public turns the bond issue down, has been vocal about recent noise problems affecting neighboring communities.

"It is important to send a message to Wayne County officials that expansion of the airport will affect the environment both with pollution and noise pollution," said David Esper, spokesman for the group.

In order for the referendum to be placed on the ballot, the group needed 15,000 signatures. When the final deadline rolled around, the group had collected 21,000.

"That's more than enough," said Mary Sieminski, chief deputy clerk for Wayne County.

"The question they are asking isn't should the airport expand, it is should the county issue a $100 million for the purpose of airport expansion."

Members of the citizens group don't think the county is doing all it can do to protect the environment because of Northwest Airlines.

"They have the authority to do something to stop the pollution and the threat of endangering wildlife and habitat, but they don't want to disadvantage Northwest Airlines," Esper said.

Since early spring, many Wayne County communities have voiced complaints about the noise issue. Currently, the Federal Aviation Administration has put together a task force for the purpose of studying the jet issue.

One of the members of the task force is Wayne County Noise Czar Bryan Amann.

One of the communities disturbed by the noise is Westland. Mayor Robert Thomas is waiting until the end of the year, at which time he hopes the FAA will have a plan to eliminate the noise.

Miss Evelyn teaches dance with grace

By MARY ELLEN BRIGMAN
ANP Special Writer

Evelyn Falatine Alatalo of Evelyn's School of Dance remembers her first dance lesson as a little girl—she cried. A week later at the second lesson, she fell in love with dance.

"Even at the age of 5, I knew I wanted to teach," said Miss Evelyn, as she prefers to be called.

"I opened my studio when I graduated from high school, and I've been teaching ever since."

Today, after 35 years in her studio on Wayne Road, Miss Evelyn is still lithe and slim, a diminutive bundle of energy. In black leotard and tights, her waist-length dark hair caught up in a pony tail with a red band that matches her red belt, she leads her students through the vigorous warm-ups before introducing a new lesson. Then she steps back and watches, her dark eyes intense, her smile encouraging.

The classes are well-disciplined, but her criticism is gentle and not without humor.

"Arms up, higher—you'll get them caught in your tutu down there."

A native of Romulus, Miss Evelyn first studied in Ypsilanti. She continued her teaching studies at The Royal Academy of Dancing, London, England and the National Ballet of Canada in Toronto, and with Rosella

Hightower in Cannes, France.

Today she teaches ballet, tap, modern jazz, and acrobatics. Many students start her classes at the age of 3.

"I always tell them the story of my first day—how I cried," she said. "I didn't know what to expect. So I try to make it easier for them."

Miss Evelyn's classes are open to all ages. Last year, a 68-year-old grandmother began tap-dancing when her granddaughter did. Different classes, of course, but they practiced together. This fall, a young mother and former student is back, taking up where she left off 18 years ago.

"I would recommend dance for everyone," Miss Evelyn said. "It is good exercise. It is fun. It helps poise and confidence. And it's good socially—a way to meet people."

Many of her former students have continued dancing. Some are with professional ballet companies, a few have acted and danced with community and summer-stock theater companies, a few are dance teachers themselves, and one student was a Gold Digger on the Dean Martin Show.

She is especially proud of her advanced classes.

"Dancing is good for them. Sometimes teen-agers have outside problems. Maybe just small problems, but they come in and dance their hearts out, and the problems are gone," she said.

Her students also perform in school musicals, at the Wayne Festival, in malls and parades, and at the Builders Show in Cobo Hall. This Christmas season, they may be seen at the Metro Mall.

Despite a busy teaching schedule, Miss Evelyn has also found time to lecture on dance at local high schools, act as a judge for the Miss Wayne contest, choreograph numerous theatrical productions, and dance leading roles in the Ann Arbor Civic Ballet. She has also taught dance at the Will-O-Way Theater in Bloomfield Hills and at the Marjorie Randazzo Studio in Ypsilanti.

Student named semi-finalist

By MARGO DEWEY

Romulus High School senior Wendy Hopper was a little overwhelmed by it all.

Hopper was named a national merit semifinalist for high Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test scores. If she becomes one of the winners, she could receive a scholarship ranging up to $2,000 per year for four years.

Hopper's guidance counselor, John Domas, is very proud.

"She is ranked eighth in her 1990 class of 300 for the last six semesters. Her grade point is 3.748. She's involved in the Spanish Club, National Honor Society and the school-tutoring program," Domas said.

Domas said out of some 50,000 students across the nation only 15,000 are declared semifinalists. Those students will go through a screening process where 6,000 finalists will be notified next March.

"I expect Wendy to do very well in college. She's able to focus her powers of concentration to accomplish any task. She is a genuine, down-to-earth person," Domas said.

Hopper said she would like to attend the University of Michigan-Dearborn next fall. She doesn't have any specific interest of study yet.

"It all sounds interesting. It feels good to be a semifinalist. I never really thought about it much," she said.

Hopper likes to write, read and draw. She said she really enjoys drawing her own fantasy stuff.

Senior Tameca Robertson is also a semifinalist for the national achievement scholarship program for outstanding Negro students. Robertson has a 3.9 grade point average and she seems to have her life planned out.

"I'm going to get my bachelor degree in engineering, my graduate degree in marketing and I'm going to go into international business," Robertson said.

Most colleges and universities require a foreign language for International business degree. Robertson said she has already taken Spanish and French.

Students learn of fire prevention

And the winner is...

A tie between fifth-grader Tami Petty and fourth-grader Sean Romar to put on firefighter gear.

The race was part of fire prevention day Friday at St. Mary's Elementary School in Wayne.

The week of Oct. 7 through Oct. 13 was declared fire prevention week by Wayne Mayor Patrick Norton. Fire officials toured several elementary schools last week including St. Michael's, Vandenburg, Taft, Roosevelt, Monroe and Hoover, informing students on the do's and don'ts of fire prevention.

Students from kindergarten through fifth grade at St. Mary's listened intently to firefighter Rick Berger as he explained to the children during a slide presentation the importance of preventing fire hazards in the home.

"Look for cigarettes carelessly left out that are lit. If you find matches in the house, give them to your parents," Berger said.

Berger told the students not to leave anything on a space heater, such as wet socks, which could cause a fire. Over-

Ronald McDonald makes appearance

By MARGO DEWEY

Ronald McDonald stopped by Wick Elementary School Monday to teach students about fire safety.

"What's No. 1 when there's a fire?" Ronald asked the children. "Stop, drop and roll. No. 2 is know what to do."

McDonald joined Romulus firefighters in an effort to teach elementary students about fire safety as part of Fire Prevention Month.

McDonald toured all the Romulus elementary schools Monday including Barth, Cory, Hale Creek, Hayti, Merriman and Wick. Romulus Fire Chief William Greenslaid said McDonald helps firefighters get the message across on fire safety.

"He's a national figure. Every child knows Ronald McDonald. He can accomplish more in half an hour than we can in one day," Greenslaid said.

McDonald pulled several students from the audience to help him tell stories on ways to prevent fires, what to do during a fire and the best escape route to practice.

"When there's smoke, there's fire. Stay low, that's where the air is good. Don't open hot doors, have a second escape plan and have a safe meeting place," McDonald said.

After each skit, students who participated in role-play received a fire safety helmet.

Donna Sisk, community relations representative for McDonald's, said Ronald McDonald is a good tool to teach children about a serious lesson.

"He puts the information in a fun way for the children in order to get the message across," Sisk said. "This is something McDonald's has been doing for years during the month of October," Sisk said.

At the end of the assembly, Ronald asked students to raise their hands and recite a promise to practice fire safety every day. He told them "look and sound" could save their lives during a fire.

Local business owner closes store, era

Hazen Hay, you've just retired and packed up Hay Plumbing and Heating Co. in Romulus. What are you going to do next?

"I'm going to go down to Florida and take care of my orange and apple trees," the 70-year-old said.

Well, it's not exactly going to Disney World, but Hay is closing shop Nov. 1 anyway, and moving move down to Florida for winters, while spending summers in a Michigan house next to his store on Wick Road.

He learned the plumbing business from his father, Alfred, back in 1920 on Eureka Road.

Hay studied four years to get his apprenticeship and two years to get his master's degree before he was eligible for a Michigan Boilers License and a state Mechanical license.

"The license allows me to go to a city and get a permit to do a job such as installing a boiler or a heating system. It entitles me to get a permit and you have to be licensed for that," Hay said.

Hay has worked for Romulus schools, the local municipalities and a number of other businesses. Besides working in Michigan, Hay has taken his business outside the state to Toledo, Ohio and New York.

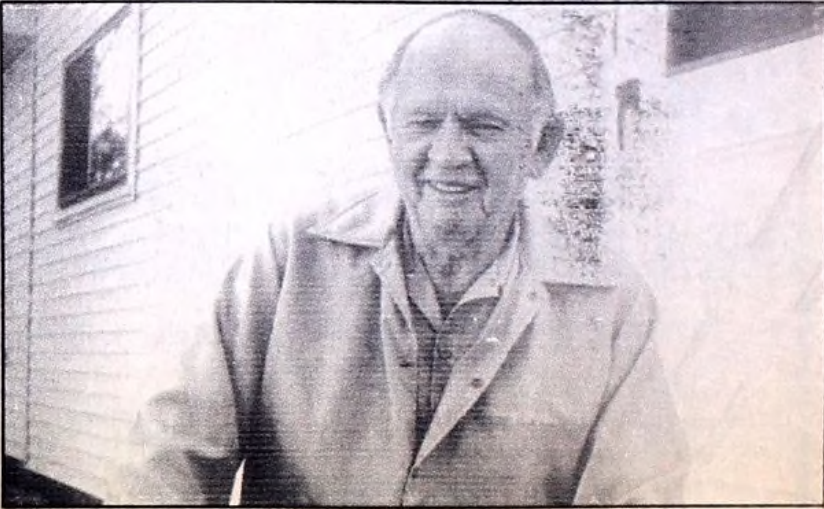

"I worked in seven Holiday Inns and did some apartments in Toledo," Hay said.

The best thing about owning his own company is going to a bid-opening and having his bid picked as the low bidder, Hay said.

"I also liked laying out the job. Laying out all the measurements before the concrete is done. You have to be very accurate," Hay said.

What's the worst part of the job? "Finishing 'punchlist items,'" Hay said. "Once a job is completed, architects finalize the job by making a punch list of what has to be finished. They look to see if a screw is out of place or if the nuts are the wrong size."

Hay's business grossed from $150,000 to $950,000 per year. He said the only thing he regrets about the business is collection time.

"That's the biggest thing I regret. I lost nearly $500,000 in this job," Hay said.

Through the years, Hay said he has hired several crews, up to 60 people at a time for one job, and he also had trucks for the crew.

Before Hay retires Nov. 1, he said he will finish a job in Troy and one in Ferndale.

His last words of advice include:

"Watch the bank account. Just because you have a few extra bucks doesn't mean you can spend it. You have to pay all the bills first. At the end of the year, Uncle Sam is always there waiting for you."

loading an electrical socket could also result in a fire, Berger said.

"Remove extension cords from under the carpet. Extension cords shouldn't be used permanently, just in a temporary situation," Berger said.

Berger explained the steps in preventing a cooking hazard. He said make sure all the handles on the pots and pans are turned inward on the stove.

"If there is a pan fire, cover it up with the lid, turn off the heat and notify the fire department," he said. "It's important to call the fire department, even after the fire is put out so fire officials can make sure the area is safe."

Berger asked students if they knew the number to call in an emergency. They all said "911" and "O" for operator.

Other safety tips were given, such as making sure nothing is placed near the furnace and water heater as well as cleaning out the lint catcher in the dryer. Berger also told the children if there is a fire in the home, make sure to look for the nearest window to escape and be careful not to touch hot doors.

"We have a smoke detector ordinance in Wayne that says every home should have a smoke detector. The detector should be high on the wall. There should also be a fire extinguisher," Berger said.

Berger said if a student catches fire on the clothing, the best remedy would be to "stop, drop and roll."

After the slide presentation, fire officials gave two fire prevention T-shirts to first-grader Jessica Berner first grader, and kindergartner John Estrada. Second-grader Stephanie Fedulchale, won the honors of spending a half day at the fire station Oct. 23.

When the assembly was over, students went outside to look at the fire trucks and listened to Lt. Fred Gill and Sgt. Rob Dahlman talk about the 92-foot fire ladder and why the trucks are painted yellow.

Teacher sews up state home economics honor

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Staff Writer

Phyllis Cebula, Romulus Senior High School home economics teacher, believes in helping her students feel better about themselves.

Cebula's dedication and constant concern about "her kids" has been recognized by the State of Michigan. She recently won the State Home Economics Teacher of the Year award for 1990. Cebula was also honored by the Romulus School Board last week, where a resolution was passed in her honor and a plaque was given to her.

After teaching home economics for 13 years, Cebula said the best thing about her work is the students.

"I like teaching the kids about themselves," she said. "If I can help kids feel better about themselves then I've accomplished something."

Cebula said home economics, an elective course at the high school, has changed over the years from its primary emphasis on cooking and sewing to learning about parenting, eating right and personal living.

"These skills are extremely essential. It's a curriculum students need to know," Cebula said.

Parenting is one of the most important careers a person will have, Cebula said.

"It's a career where there is the least amount of preparation," she said.

Cebula said she doesn't use eggs in her class to represent babies. She uses five-pound flower sack babies which are a little more realistic, she said.

"Each student gets a flower sack baby to carry for 72 hours. They have to keep a journal. If the flower sack is ripped, they have to do a report on child abuse," Cebula said.

Although home economics classes used to be predominantly female, at one time her classes consisted of a 50/50 split between boys and girls. Cebula said students show a great deal of enthusiasm about the classes.

A graduate of Eastern Michigan University in home economics, Cebula said she attributes the state award to her family, where there is a history of teachers. She said her parents, grandmother and aunt are, or at one time were, teachers.

Cebula, however, was first inspired to become a home economics teacher when she was in the seventh grade.

"I was greatly influenced by my seventh-grade home economics teacher, Elly Tupper, who was also my home economics teacher in high school. She now teaches in Hillsdale working with a program for pregnant girls," Cebula said.

Cebula, however, isn't the only teacher at Romulus High School trying to help students "be all they can be."

Terry Kamensky, lab, science and math instructor, has created a curriculum based on textbook and computer software for the special education department.

The idea is to provide a varied learning environment for students in math, life science and physical science classes, according to Kamensky.

Terry Kamensky

Kamensky had one of her students convert old desks into computer stations. The big challenge was trying to get electricity into a room with only one outlet.

Kamensky was able to get fourteen lines by help of electricians in the building, whom were working on another project at the time.

Claude Siders, Romulus special education director, provided the class with four Apple computers and three printers last year. Three more computers and a fourth printer was added this fall. Now 10 to 15 students can attend the class at one time.

Kamensky uses primarily science and math software. Mystery Matter and Mystery Objects are the two favorites in the classroom. Students work on the computers in small groups or together.

There are plans to enlarge the facilities, according to Kamensky. She has requested a Macintosh SE-30 and a telephone modem. Kamensky also wants to use the networking version of AppleWorks and Microsoft Works to develop a data base and spreadsheet.

UNFORTUNATELY, THESE DAYS THE MAN OF THE HOUSE ISN'T ALWAYS A MAN.

THERE ARE OVER 140,000 SINGLE-PARENT FAMILIES IN SOUTHEASTERN MICHIGAN.

In the past ten years alone, the number of single-parent families has risen 10 percent, forcing thousands of children to handle pressures and responsibilities beyond their years.

Now, more than ever, the United Way Torch Drive needs your donation to help organizations, like Big Brothers and Big Sisters, offer support and companionship to thousands of youths in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties. Plus, your contributions will aid over 150 agencies that care for the elderly, teach the illiterate, fight disease and more.

Please, this year, give generously to the United Way Torch Drive. Because enough children have grown up before their time.

Credit unions offer benefits

By THEODORE G. COUTILISH
ANP News Editor

You've just graduated from college and have started a new job.

You're making more money now than ever before, but you're faced now with what to do with the extra earnings.

You can either A) go to the bar every night and drink like a fish, B) give it all to the poor, C) put it away in a savings or checking account at a bank or a savings and loan or D) join a credit union.

The more prudent choices are C and D, but which one of these is the best for you?

Credit union officials say they offer all the benefits of a bank — loans, certificate of deposits, individual retirement accounts and automatic teller machine cards.

The only exceptions are credit unions typically do not offer their members safety boxes and trust services, according to Barbara O'Brien, general manager of Detroit Federal Employees Credit Union.

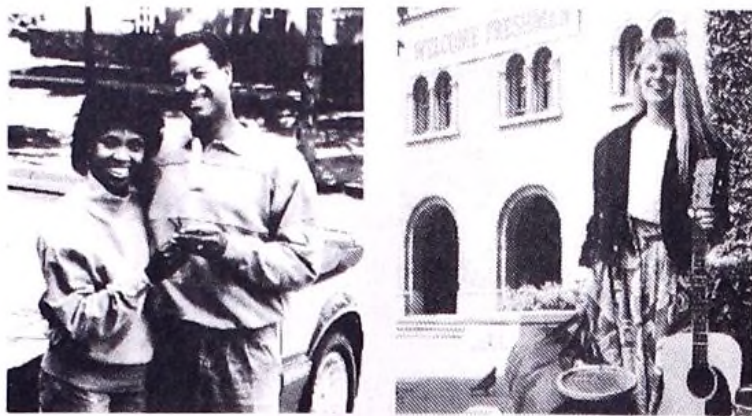

"Credit unions tend to be far more member-orientated than customer-orientated," she said. "Our customers are our boss, and we try to do our best to make sure we do everything we possibly can to help our members in whatever financial areas they need, provided we offer them."

O'Brien said credit union members usually follow their parents' lead into the business.

Don Ritchie, manager of The Times Herald Credit Union in Port Huron, said his organization serves about 650 members. He said members come to him for lower personal and car loans his union can offer.

"On the whole, we offer better rates than most banks to our members," he said.

A TRADITION
WORTH
PRESERVING

Lawmakers from every state and district are feeling the political backlash from the nation's largest bailout of financial institutions. Because of the savings and loan crisis, Congress may soon consider a restructuring of the entire financial services community as part of a solution.

CREDIT UNIONS ARE WORTH PROTECTING

Even though they are not part of the S&L problem, the overhaul could sweep credit unions under the banking system, thus eliminating them as the only available not-for-profit alternative for millions of consumers who use financial services.

As true cooperative organizations that put people ahead of profit, credit unions are worth protecting. They urgently need your help. Please voice your support by completing the simple petition form below. All you have to do is sign your name, write in your address and mail it to:

Protect Credit Unions

We'll see that your petition is delivered directly to your representatives in Congress. Thank you.

If you'd like more information about this serious threat to America's credit unions and what else you can do to assist, contact your credit union or the Michigan Credit Union League.

TO: MICHIGAN'S CONGRESSIONAL DELEGATION

This is to certify that I, the undersigned, hereby petition the Congress of the United States of America to protect and defend a separate and consumer oriented credit union system by not permitting this system to be taken over by the banks or their banking regulators.

To face the future with confidence, we must know of our past.

Local area historic societies' restoration efforts are evidence that cities and townships in the area want to preserve historical sites for the purpose of referencing the past.

In Westland, restoration of the Collins House, Wayne Road, between Cherry Hill and Marquette roads, is nearly complete.

Local donations and grants have financed the renovation of the 19th-century home.

Another Westland Historical Society project, currently under way, is the renovation of Perrinville School, built in the 1800s. The school is located on Warren Road at the corner of Cowan Road.

Upon completion, elementary school students will take field trips to the one-room schoolhouse, according to Joseph Benyo, city council liaison.

"Students will be able to have a history lesson in the school, and learn about education in the 1890s," Benyo said.

Right now, the interior walls are being stripped and the windows reglazed. The historical society hopes to finish the project by next fall, in time for the 25th anniversary of Westland.

The society is seeking donations and volunteers. Call 467-3183, for more information.

In Inkster, a new location is being sought for the Inkster Historical Museum, which is currently in the city hall.

Many items of historical significance can be found in the present museum including a carousel with photos of prominent people who lived in Inkster, two busts of Martin Luther King and a street lamp and a vintage wooden city sign.

The two busts of King were given to the museum by William Payton, according to Leanna Hicks, president of the Inkster Historical Society and Museum. One is in the public library and the other in the museum.

Hicks recently received a letter from a Canadian man, whose last name is Inkster. The man, a Royal Canadian Mounted Police chief, wants to know if he's related to Robert Inkster, the founding father.

Both men have descendants from Shetland Islands, off the coast of Norway, Hicks said.

In 1855, Robert Ingastter (Inkster) bought a sawmill on Inkster Road and Michigan Avenue, near the railroad tracks.

After the city council finds a site for the museum, the historical society will need volunteers and a part-time curator.

In the past, the "Friends of the Inkster Library" have helped the society with projects.

The Canton Township Historic Society and Commission are also actively involved in the restoration of buildings.

Commission members are now restoring the Sheldon School, a one-room schoolhouse built in the 1880s, at Michigan Avenue, west of Sheldon Road.

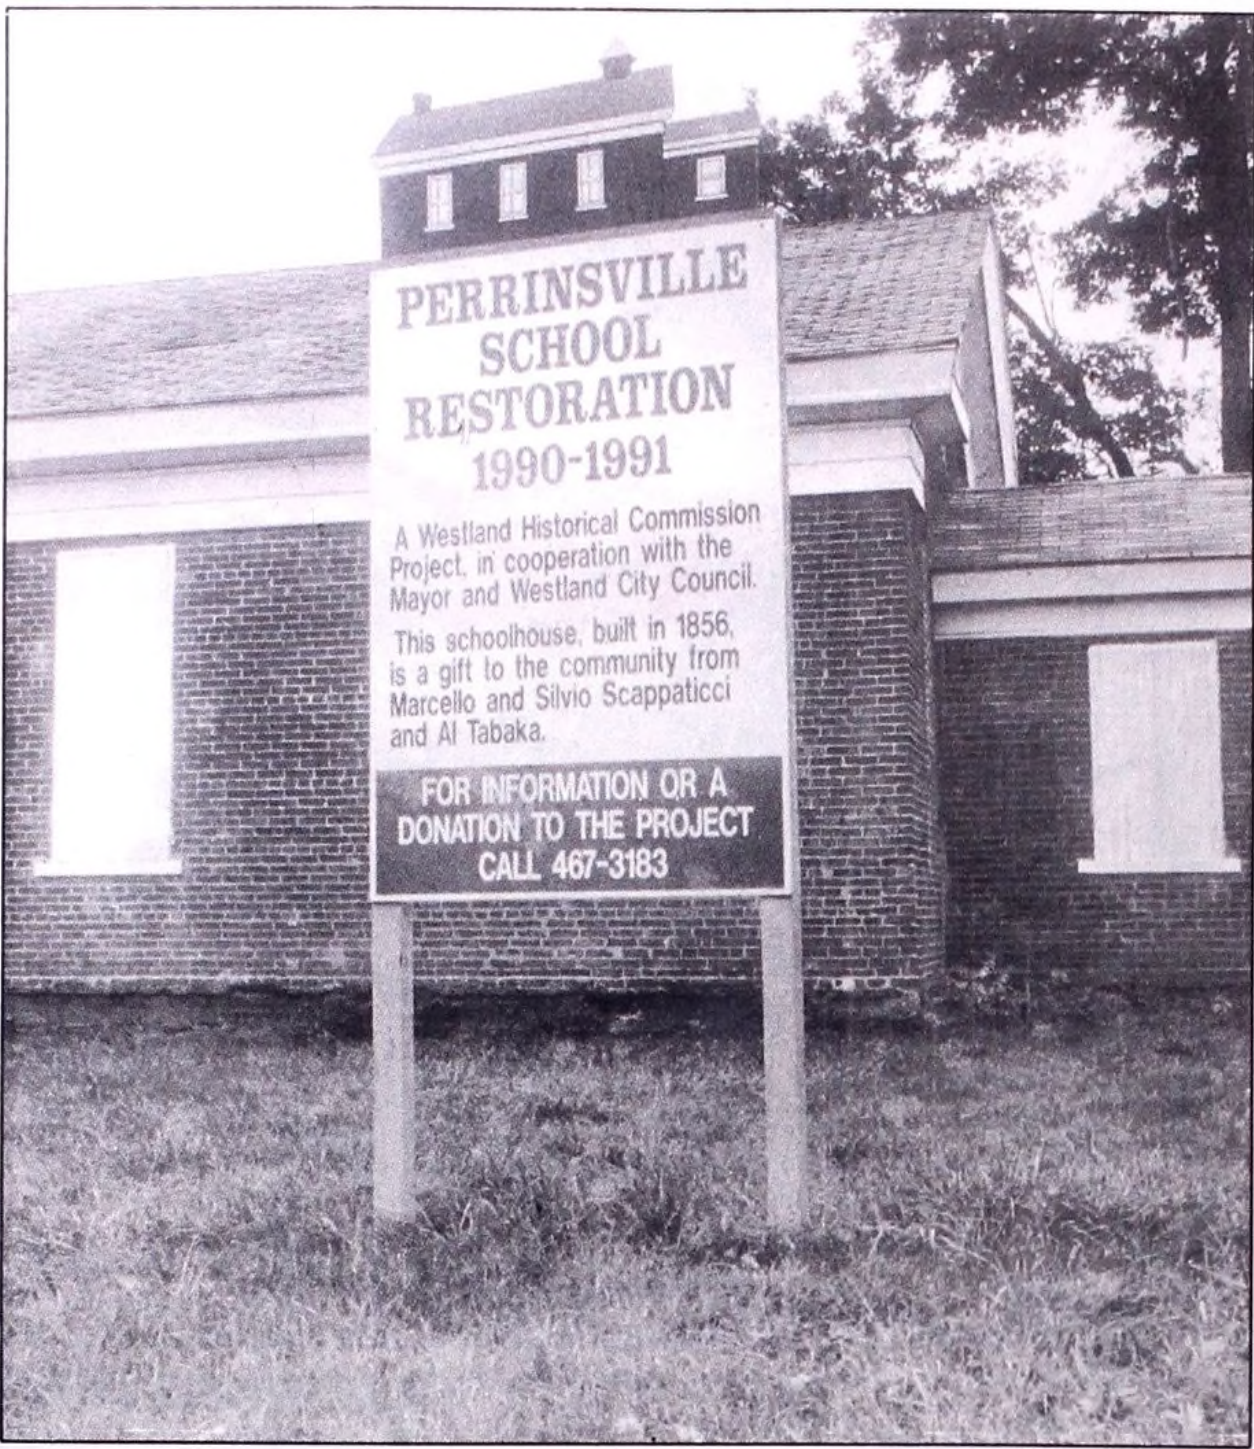

The township has received grants from the Department of Housing and Urban Development and community development block grants for the project.

Recently, the Canton Historic District Commission moved the Palmer barn to Cherry Hill and Ridge Road.

Community theater and social gatherings will take place in the barn after its renovation.

The barn, circa 1914, has been in the Palmer family since the 1920s. The Palmers, who soon will retire from farming, donated the barn to Canton.

In Belleville, the Belleville Area Museum has replicas of 11 historic buildings from Belleville, Sumpter and Van Buren townships. The museum, which opened in 1989, is located in the old Quirk School. Historic society members consider the recreation of the Belleville railroad depot as the focal point. On the exterior of the depot vintage Belleville signs from yesteryear are displayed.

Perrinville School in Westland is one of many current restoration projects.

Local man scares up a mean Halloween display

By THEODORE G. COUTLISH
ANP News Editor

Paul Nerswick never gets too excited about Christmas. Or Easter. Or Thanksgiving.

But mention Halloween and the Van Buren Township resident lights up like a jack-o-lantern Oct. 31.

He lives, breathes and plans Halloween displays all year round at his home on Robson Street. Consider: He began planning for Halloween next year in September.

This year, as in the past 22 years, Nerswick has spent months preparing displays in his yard, which may attract an estimated 25,000 people.

In this interview, Nerswick, who owns his own concession stand, explains his love for the spooky holiday.

Paul Nerswick

ASSOCIATED NEWSPAPERS: How did you get started in this?

PAUL NERSWICK: My mother always liked Halloween. We wanted to be like everyone else with our display. But people over the years got away from what Halloween was supposed to be. It's not a time for adults or poisoning candy. It's a time for the kids. This is something that just blossomed over the years, especially the last four years.

ANP: What gave you the idea to make your display bigger than everyone else?

PN: We got down to eight kids coming around during trick-or-treat time in 1985. That was really a bummer. So I decided it was time to do something to attract a few more people to our house.

ANP: What have you wanted to create with your Halloween display?

PN: Everybody talks about my house 12 months of the year. You can go down and see Joe Blow's Christmas decorations, and you'll talk about them for 15 minutes after you drive away. Ours is the only one of its kind.

ANP: Some people might say you do this for the notoriety. What do you think?

PN: I do it because it's what I want to do. It's time to give something back to the community. I would never consider charging money to see my display. I know the reason why I do this. It's the 459 trick-or-treaters we had last year.

ANP: What's in it for you?
PN: The thrill is knowing the anti-drug sayings on one of the gravestones in my yard may save a life down the road. To me, that would be the biggest joy on the face of this earth.

ANP: You spend your own time and money making Halloween displays. Why not make displays for other holidays?

PN: They've exploited Christmas and Easter to the max. Halloween doesn't have any play any longer. The media exploited the fires in downtown Detroit and helped them to get out of control. You got to promote safety and well-being. I want to be positive about my display, and I always loved Halloween.

ANP: Does the negative image of Halloween in the Detroit area upset you?

PN: If I can promote something better on the Belleville side of town, so be it.

ANP: What is your ultimate goal and what can people look forward to seeing at your house in the future?

PN: My goal is for parents who are not afraid of going up to our house to go trick-or-treating with their kids without worrying about whether the candy contains drugs or poison. I feel great about that. I want the kids now to feel the same way I felt when I was a kid. Wherever I went at Halloween, I was never afraid. It was the next holiday to Christmas for kids. They should not have to worry about eating a piece of candy. As for the future, well let's just say I will be wearing a costume for the first time this Halloween. I can't tell you exactly what it is, but it will have something to do with a supreme being."

Our history worth remembering

Henry Ford once claimed that "history is bunk," and yet the Ford Motor Co. has invested millions of dollars in the preservation of history through Greenfield Village and the Henry Ford Museum.

Obviously, Mr. Ford was able to admit his mistake.

Standing around us are many reminders of an earlier time. Buildings have outlived the individuals who could best explain them and now serve as our history lessons.

We can touch the walls of a one-room schoolhouse that was visited by the first settlers of our community. In that building they worshipped, learned and established guidelines by which to survive.

We can visit the state Capitol in Lansing and stand in the very places our first state leaders stood.

We can visit the places where famous men played as young children, and later used in their work.

We can indeed sit in the parlor of a typical farmhouse and wonder about the things that happened there.

The walls talk in a way. They open our ears and imagination to the lives that were lived during a time we have never known.

In recent years, the restoration of historic buildings has become "the thing to do."

The rest of the population is coming to realize that history is not bunk after all.

Societies and commissions have been established to save and restore structures with roots deep in history. Members work hard to gather funding and put in their own "elbow grease" to see the projects to conclusion.

The state has also been supportive by providing grants and matching funds to these organizations.

Restoration efforts should be applauded, and we recommend that everyone find some way to participate - even in a small way.

The experience will offer many rewards in terms of knowledge, insights and community spirit gained.

By rebuilding the past, we are ensuring that the present and the future generations will never forget what came before them.

Good news deserved

Congratulations, Wayne.

Finally, the city is enjoying some good news.

A recent attempt to stage a coup in Wayne has left city officials, business people and others slightly dazed. The recall effort, however, was halted, and the city received some exciting news.

Wayne was selected to serve as a model for a major study on downtown development.

City officials have been working to devise a downtown development plan that will bring business to the city and make it a popular place with shoppers.

Various theories and thoughts have been mulled as money has been collected through a Tax Increment Finance Authority.

We support all efforts to restore Wayne to a thriving business community, and look forward to hearing more about the study as time goes along.

Priorities abandoned

In a recent issue of the Romulus Roman Newspaper, under the heading "Political Sham," Mr. William Bedell, Superintendent of the Romulus School District expressed his opinion of not favoring to accept approximately 38 new computers this year to use in classrooms with the state picking up the tab; believing the state would not live up to their agreement of picking up the tab. He stated: "What would happen is the state would dump these computers on us and they would end up in some corner of the classroom." He went on to blame Gov. James Blanchard for attempting to woo educators and the community during an election year. Mr. Bedell is disregarding an offer to use modern, efficient technology.

Many options could be opened to transmit computer usage which would bring the students, as well as the officials, in touch with modern means. In this case, Mr. Bedell abandoned his primary priority. I am sure the state will keep its end of the bargain - they have the means to do so.

Romulus, on the other hand, has in the past deleted some of the proposals voted on by the citizens of Romulus. I know I've been paying school taxes since 1954, even voting for increased school taxes.

I have gone with the "flow of the tide" in the past, but on this recommendation I want to voice my opinion.

Applause to the voters

We students of Belleville High School appreciate the effort and time the citizens have put in to help the millage pass. Now, the students have a better chance of being accepted by the best colleges. We also have more athletic participation, and a larger variety of classes to choose from.

We now feel the students and the citizens will combine to make our school and community a better place to receive an excellent education.

We feel the more positive change was due to the higher percentage of voters and the support the community contributed to the school district. We would especially like to thank Mr. Richendollar, the teachers and the citizens, who went door to door campaigning, for helping us and contributing their time so we can receive a better education.

Committee efforts are for naught

For some time now, the so-called "Citizens" for education group has made comments and accusations about the school board and the officials. Most are derogatory and actually none have been on a positive note, with anything to build on. It does not take a genius to see the committee's efforts are not directed to helping our youth, but getting back at someone for whatever reasons. We, the "real citizens," cannot afford to risk our children's future and the credibility of our community by getting involved in personal conflicts. This business of education is about kids. Kids should be our focal point, and whatever it takes is what we must do.

Teachers seek contract

I am a teacher employed by the Wayne County Regional Educational Service Agency (formerly known as the Intermediate School District) and am presently working without a contract. According to my union representatives, my employer has taken a "hard ball" stance in negotiations and has been bargaining in questionable faith.

Because our schools serve many districts and not just one community, it is difficult for us to take our case to the people (all Wayne County residents) who pay the millage which supports our programs. In our attempts to get media coverage of our situation, we have been told (at least by the electronic media) that our case will not rate coverage until we threaten to strike or actually go on strike. This raises, for me, serious questions regarding responsible journalism.

The programs run by the WCRESA serve the most severely physically, mentally and emotionally impaired students in 26 school districts. If more people were aware of the tremendous professional skill and emotional and physical energies required of us (and our paraprofessional colleagues), they would undoubtedly understand our stance that we deserve equitable pay and benefits and our extreme reluctance to demonstrate our dissatisfaction with present negotiations through any action which would adversely affect our students.

We must make the public aware of our situation. Our present pay scale is the lowest in Wayne County. Our employer has informed us it is not lack of funds which is dictating their minimal offers to us but simply an unwillingness to use available funds to increase our pay and benefits. I sincerely and urgently request that your paper investigate the labor situation (teachers are not the only group working without a contract) at the WCRESA and help us put our case before your readers. We are confident that if the residents of Wayne County became aware of the nature of our programs and our present difficulties, they would insist that the superintendent, Dr. William Simmons, take personal control of the negotiating process and effect an equitable and speedy resolution.

County budget battle falls in lap of commission

By RANDY FRANK
ANP Staff Writer

Wayne County Commissioners will be meeting throughout the month to smooth out wrinkles in the 1991 county budget.

The budget is scheduled to be approved by Nov. 1.

Budget talks in Wayne County are historically heated, according to those who have witnessed the procedure.

Budget talks this year are expected to have the same "flavor".

Wayne County Executive Edward H. McNamara's recommended general fund budget totals $289.2 million for the 1990-91 fiscal year, which is a 5.79 percent increase from the 1990 amended budget.

The general fund revenue estimate of $289.2 million consists of the following: $191.25 million, taxes; $29.75 million, state revenue sharing; $12.1 million, certified inventory loss; $41.25 million, department-generated revenues; and $9.7 million, inter-fund transfers.

General fund revenues will increase $15.86 million or 5.8 percent from the 1990 amended budget, according to Lester Robinson, Wayne County chief of staff.

County residential property taxes amount to $185.7 million in the recommended budget, a 7.7-percent increase from the 1990 budget.

The actual increase in property tax assessments was 9 percent, but with the Headlee rollback, the increase was smaller.

The general fund budget includes general operating expenses of county departments, law enforcement, jails, Probate and Juvenile courts, Recorder's courts, youth services, indigent and mental health care.

The budgets for the Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport and county roads are separate funds.

The recommended 1991 budget for airport construction is $370.2 million and $117 million for Metro Airport operations. The county road budget is $135.3 million.

"We submitted a balanced budget to the county commission," Robinson said.

It is now up to the commission to either approve or turn down the proposal, and enter their own negotiations.

Chief staff members agree that the impending recession and increased gasoline prices could affect the budget proposal.

At this point in time, Wayne County is in fine financial health, and is able to make payments on outstanding debts, according to Mary Lannoye, county budget director.

In August, the credit rating for Wayne County was raised to an investment grade rating.

The 1991 county budget also reflects the renovation of existing jail cells and the construction of the 840-bed Hamtramck jail, which is slated to open in fall 1991, plus the debt service retirement for the 1990 jail bond issue.

Debt payment on the Hamtramck jail will eat up $6.86 million of the $23.8 million generated from the public safety millage. An additional $5 million from the millage is allocated to jail construction.

The remaining monies will pay for youth homes, youth services, old jail operations, Hamtramck jail operations and state wards.

Plastic benches of future

Wooden park benches and picnic tables may be uprooted by recycled plastics products in the future.

Jeanna Paluzzi, Conference of Western Wayne solid waste program coordinator, brought samples of recycled plastics to the Oct. 12 meeting to encourage member communities to purchase recycled products.

"These plastics are appropriate for benches, trash containers and liners, and also for use as lumber-like landscaping material," Paluzzi said.

The solid waste program coordinator asked local parks and recreation departments to use recycled products when they plan, develop or update their facilities.

She noted the purchase of recycled products by local municipalities and businesses is critical to creating a viable market for recyclables.

Other products made with recycled materials are parking lot bumper blocks, flower pots and insulation. Composting material and wood chips also will be available through yard waste recycling programs.

Dialers, new technique required

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP Staff Writer

Michigan Bell officials will begin implementing a new dialing procedure for residents living in Wayne, Belleville, Dearborn, Flat Rock, Monroe, Carleton, New Boston, Trenton and Wyandotte.

Physchiatry chief tapped

Dr. Kenneth Pitts M.D. is the new chief of Psychiatry at Annapolis Hospital-Westland Center in Westland. Pitts is currently a clinical associate professor at Wayne State School of Medicine.

He will head a team of psychiatrists, sociologists, therapists, counselors and other specialists in mental health care and chemical dependency at the Westland Center.

"Under Dr. Pitts' leadership, the Westland Center will provide a full spectrum of chemical dependency as well as mental health programs for adult and adolescent patients."

The new procedure will be effective in Belleville the week of Dec. 4, and in Wayne the week of Oct. 18 for those customers who have a 397 exchange, and the week of Nov. 29 for those customers who have the exchanges 326, 467, 595, 721, 722, 728 or 729.

The new procedure will require callers to use the 313 area code when calling cities that could be reached up until now by dialing a "1" then the phone number.

"Under the new dialing procedure announced in February, customers will dial a '1' plus the 313 area code and the local telephone number," said Charlene Mitchell, Michigan Bell public relations director.

If a caller tries to dial a number using the old procedure, the call won't go through, according to Mitchell. A recorded announcement will be heard telling the caller that he or she must dial a 1-313, before the number.

The reason for the change is to eliminate a shortage of phone numbers.

The procedure is being phased in slowly in different communities within the 313 area. This new procedure is expected to create an additional 1.5 million phone numbers. The extra numbers will be created, because the company can use the other 150 area codes as the first three digits of a phone number.

"For example, customers might find Arizona's 602 area code being used as the first three digits of their local phone number — say, (313) 602-0000," Mitchell said.

Currently, calls from Detroit to Ann Arbor are placed by dialing "1" plus the phone number. When the policy is in place the dialer will have to dial "1" plus the area code, (313), and then the phone number.

"More lines at home and offices, and new uses for phone lines — such as personal pagers, mobile phones, fax machines, computer modems and answering services — have contributed to the shortage we're experiencing today," Mitchell said.

Back in 1940 when Michigan Bell officials designed the numbering plan, they didn't expect these new uses for the telephone, Mitchell said.

Someone Is Taking Lots Of Money Out Of Your Checking Account.

Your Bank.

At Standard Federal, we think that you — not your bank — should take money out of your checking account. So we have low minimum balance requirements and no checkwriting fees, no matter how many checks you write.

The bottom line: The most you can pay annually for Standard Federal Regular Checking is $36.00. Our five competitors' average fees are $177.60. What more can we say?

Plenty. We offer free ATM use at over 150 locations including select Standard Federal branch offices and participating 7-Eleven stores. And right now, we'll pay you up to $10.00 for your unused checks from another bank when you open

Even cretins have rights

Just Desserts
Sue Willett

Lisa Olson, get your soap, the entire New England Patriots football team is coming over to your place to watch you shower.

Well, that seems only reasonable to me, since ole Lisa and any other individual who happens upon some press credentials can saunter into the locker room and watch professional athletes wash off the blood, sweat and grime after a game. Fair's fair, right?

I mean, get serious. Why would anybody whose IQ reached room temperature ever WANT to talk to these people? What are these hulks going to discuss, the theory of relativity and the future of the space program? Come on people, let's have a little perspective here.

These are the mental giants who recently harassed Olson while she was attempting to conduct an interview in the Patriots' locker room. These highly paid, professional athletes accompanied their verbal abuse with obscene gestures which they illustrated with explicit displays of their reproductive organs. These guys are cretins. Why would anybody want to talk to them?

For the entire nation to be discussing the propriety of having a woman reporter in a locker room after one of these GAMES is ludicrous and indicative of the desperation of many members of our society for some type of vicarious thrill.

And, if they are going to subject male reporters to this type of environment, then women have every right to be equally abused by the rigors of the job. But these team members have some rights, too, and they shouldn't be expected to parade around naked in front of reporters of either sex in the locker room. After all, their salaries are obscenity enough.

Chocolate icebox cake

- 2 sticks butter
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- 1 cup confectioner's sugar
- 2 ounces baking chocolate
- 1/4 cup strong coffee
- 4 eggs, separated
- 30 plain ladyfingers, split
- 1 cup heavy cream
- 1 tablespoon confectioner's sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- Shaved chocolate for garnish

Butter a 9x5x2 3/4 inch-loaf pan.

In an electric mixer, cream the butter and granulated sugar until light and fluffy. Combine confectioner's sugar, chocolate and coffee in the top of a double-boiler and cook over simmering water, stirring frequently, until chocolate is melted.

Beat egg yolks until light, then with chocolate removed from heat, combine yolks and chocolate; return to heat and cook, stirring constantly, until thick and smooth. Add to the butter mixture and blend thoroughly. Cool. Beat egg whites until stiff and gently fold into the mixture.

Line the bottom and sides of the loaf pan with split ladyfingers, arranging them cut side in and touching each other. Pour in half of the chocolate mixture. Add a layer of ladyfingers laid crosswise. Pour in the remaining chocolate and add another layer of ladyfingers. Cover with waxed paper and chill 4-5 hours. Unmold on a chilled serving plate. Frost top and sides of the cake with the heavy cream that has been whipped with the 1 tablespoon of confectioner's sugar and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Sprinkle with shaved chocolate for garnish.

PRIMO Pasta

A generation ago in America, there was no pasta. There was spaghetti, as with meatballs; macaroni, as with cheese; and noodles, as in tuna casserole.

Today, pasta is featured on nearly every restaurant menu, and the market place is filled with packages of fresh and dry pasta. The names tumble off the tongue like a Rossini opera chorus: rigatoni, rotini, linguine, tortellini, fettucine, capelletti, buttini, fedelini, tufoli, perciatelli and mostaccioli.

Pasta is named according to its configuration, and the English translations are charmingly descriptive: lady's legs, fat little lambs, muffs, sparrows' tongues, small worms, priests' hats, thimbles, little ears, moustaches, Venus' navel, wolves' eyes, horses' teeth.

Pasta has been enjoyed for at least 7,000 years. Ancient Etruscan drawings show utensils for making pasta, almost identical to the equipment used today. Noodles have been made in China since 1700 B.C. Some historians believe it was the Arabs who first made pasta. But it may well be that pasta, a grain flour mixed with water and then dried for later use, was developed in cultures worldwide.

And why not, for pasta, which means "paste" in Italian, is economical, tasty, healthful and simple to prepare.

That Americans have become more health conscious is probably the largest factor in this sudden surge of pasta popularity.

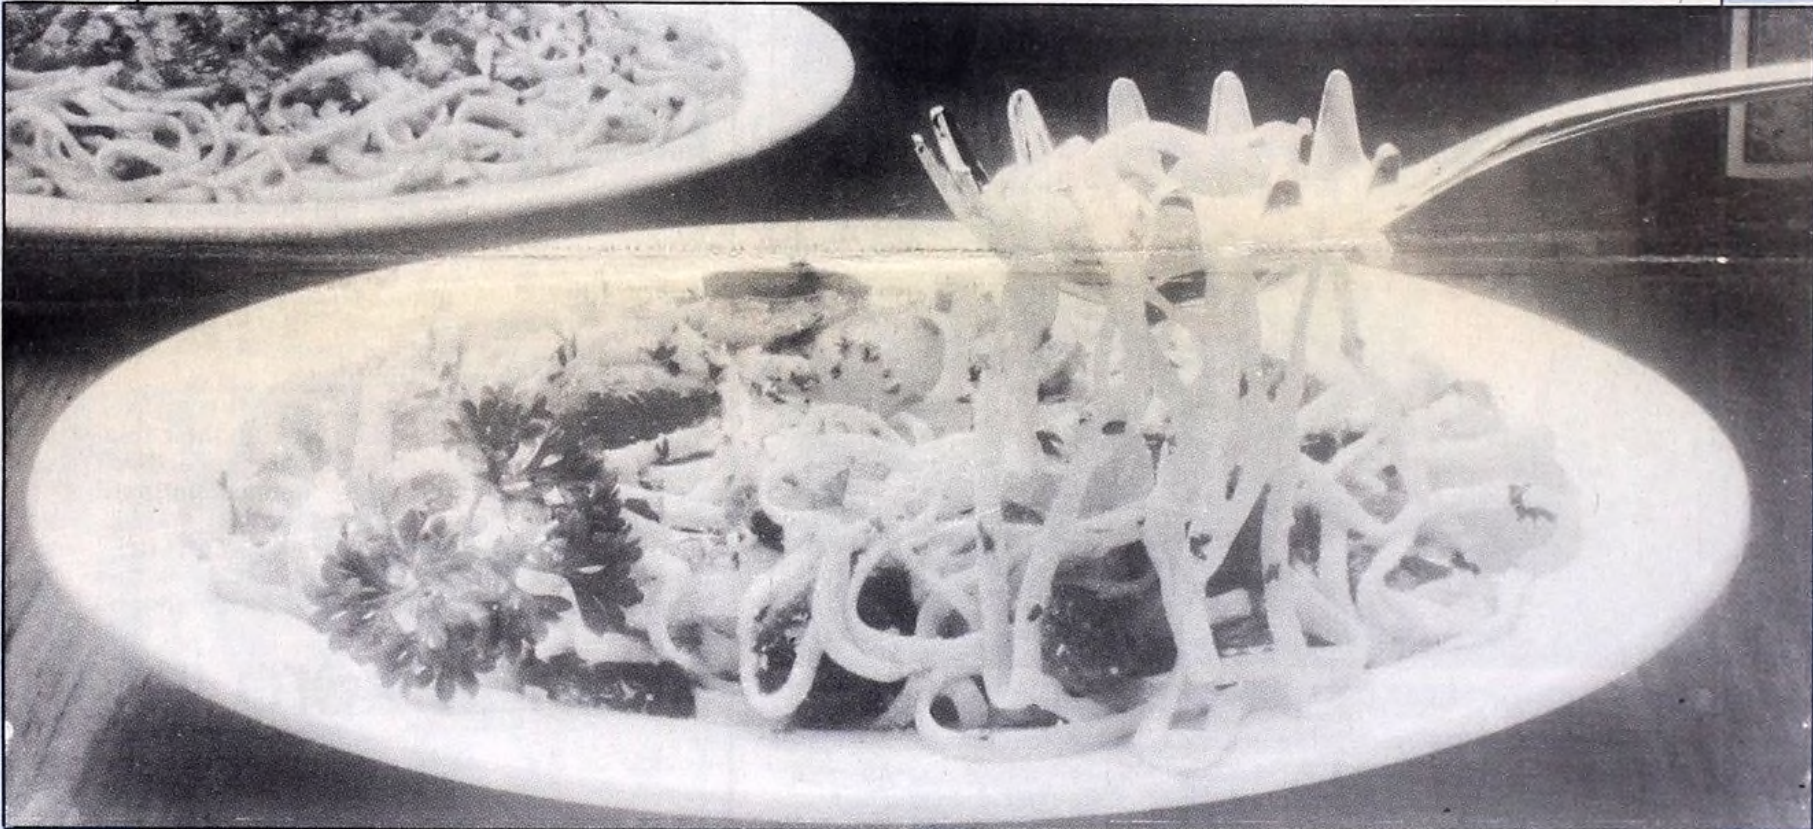

A 2-ounce serving of pasta provides 41 grams of complex carbohydrates and contains 210 to 220 calories. While carbohydrate was once synonymous with fat, we know now it is the complex carbohydrates that the body turns into fuel and energy. And the natural carbohydrate-rich foods like pasta usually contain far less fat than high-protein foods.

Pasta is the perfect food for athletes, many of whom load up on it before an event to maintain body strength and endurance.

Pastas come in more than 600 shapes and sizes. They may be long or short. Some pastas are smooth; others are grooved and referred to as rigati, which means "grooves."

Pasta size refers to thickness, diameter or width. In America, size is indicated by number, but the Italians tag a diminutive or superlative ending onto the pasta's name.

Basically, pastas fall into six main categories. There are string pastas, tube pastas, and flat pastas. There are pastas for filling, those for use only in soups, and pastas designed to hold sauces. The shape of the pasta determines the type of sauce.

Olive Garden's fettuccine assortito

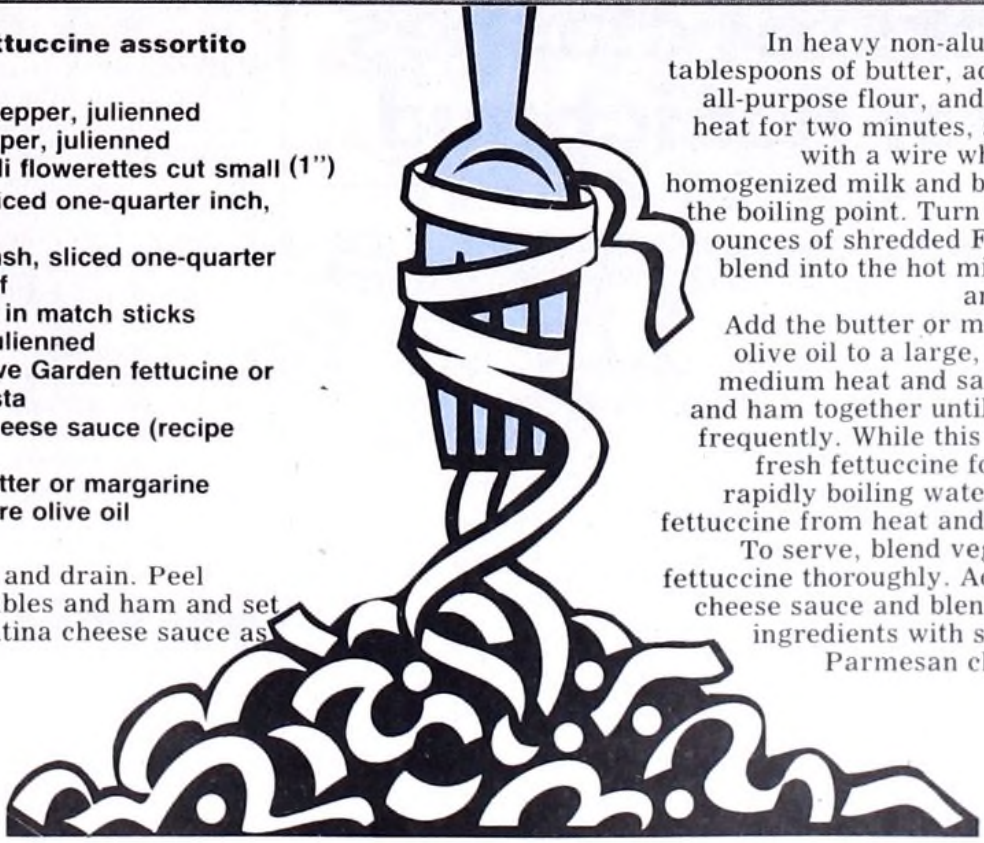

- 1 cup green bell pepper, julienned
- 1 cup red bell pepper, julienned
- 1-3/4 cups broccoli flowerettes cut small (1")
- 1 cup zucchini, sliced one-quarter inch, then cut in half
- 1 cup yellow squash, sliced one-quarter inch, then cut in half
- 1 cup carrots, cut in match sticks
- 1-3/4 cups ham, julienned
- 1 pound fresh Olive Garden fettuccine or 12 ounces dried pasta
- 3 cups Fontina cheese sauce (recipe follows)
- 3 Tablespoons butter or margarine
- 3 Tablespoons pure olive oil

Wash vegetables and drain. Peel carrots. Cut vegetables and ham and set aside. Prepare Fontina cheese sauce as follows:

In heavy non-aluminum pot, melt 6 tablespoons of butter, add 6 tablespoons of all-purpose flour, and cook on moderate heat for two minutes, stirring constantly with a wire whisk. Add 3 cups of homogenized milk and bring just barely to the boiling point. Turn off heat and add 6 ounces of shredded Fontina cheese and blend into the hot milk. Adjust the salt and pepper to taste.

Add the butter or margarine and pure olive oil to a large, heavy skillet over medium heat and saute the vegetables and ham together until crisp tender. Stir frequently. While this is sauteeing, cook fresh fettuccine for 3-1/2 minutes in rapidly boiling water. Remove cooked fettuccine from heat and drain thoroughly.

To serve, blend vegetables, ham and fettuccine thoroughly. Add the hot Fontina cheese sauce and blend again to coat all ingredients with sauce. Pass grated Parmesan cheese at the table.

Home, sweet home

Belleville snaps out of its football doldrums to beat Monroe 28-22

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Home is sweet. Just ask Belleville head football coach Sam Villa and his Tigers. After three disappointing conference losses, the Tigers returned home Friday night to the welcoming arms of a Homecoming crowd, and stunned Monroe 28-22 for their second Wolverine 'A' Conference victory in six starts this season. "We needed this victory," Villa said. "What else can I say, but that I am pleased with the team. After those three disappointing losses, I just didn't know what to expect from them."

Belleville would like to round out the league season next week with a victory over listless Trenton. However, Villa warns "playing a team like Trenton at this stage can be potentially dangerous."

"They aren't the powerhouse of the past," Villa said. "But they have nothing to lose and everything to win by beating us. I don't think they have won a game this year."

Belleville grabbed a 14-7 first-quarter lead against the visiting Monroe Trojans, as the Tigers jolted their rivals with a stunning first-play touchdown. On that opening play after the kickoff, quarterback Todd Yocum flipped the ball to running back Chris Zaccaria, who fired the ball down field to split end Sean O'Neal, who went the distance. The play was good for a 59-yard touchdown.

Then, Yocum kicked the extra point, lifting the Tigers to an early 7-0 lead. Belleville cashed in on a Monroe turnover for its second TD. The Trojans fumbled on the second play after the ensuing kickoff. Belleville linebacker Ron Hunter recovered on the Monroe 26.

Six plays later, Yocum advanced his team to the one where, on the seventh play, he handed off to Zaccaria, who scored his first of three touchdowns from the one-yard line. Yocum again booted the extra point for a 14-0 advantage.

However, Monroe didn't die. They came right back and scored the next three TDs. Quarterback Aaron LaFontaine teamed up with Jeff Royce for one score, and James Williamson scooped up a bad Belleville snap and turned the miscue into a 35-yard touchdown. LaFontaine also scored on an option to give the visitors a 22-14 lead before the intermission.

Villa adjusted the Tigers to cope with the Monroe speed, and thanks to the efforts of linebacker Hunter, who had 14 tackles for the game and one fumble recovery, and tackle, Walt Ostrowski, who blocked a field goal and had a couple of sacks, the Tigers managed to shut off the Trojans the rest of the game.

In the meantime, Yocum managed to get the Tigers on the scoreboard once in each of the final quarters.

The Tigers started the second half with another trick play. Defensive coordinator Greg Brinkeroff decided to try an on-sides kick. It paid off. Greg Patton recovered for the Tigers on their own 44. Yocum managed to move the Tigers to the Monroe 1-yard line, but the hosts failed to score. Monroe, however, didn't get out of the hole and compounded the problem with a faulty 18-yard punt.

Two plays later, Zac scored from the 14-yard line.

Belleville elected to go for two and Yocum came through. Yocum and fullback Jimmy Wagoner combined on a 70-yard, pass-run play midway in the final quarter for the final Tiger TD.

Yocum had his best game as he connected on six of his nine passes for 115 yards. Zaccaria picked up 68 yards and three TDs on 18 carries while Hunter rushed for 35 yards on 11 tries Robichaud middle linebacker Sonny Cooper (dark jersey) continues to shine on defense. The senior counted 12 tackles and one sack in a lopsided 36-0 victory over Willow Run Friday. Underdog Inkster clashes with archrival Robichaud

ANP Staff Writer

With Michigan State's nailbiting 28-27 victory over top-ranked Michigan fresh on his mind, Robichaud coach Bob Yauck prepares to meet natural rival, Inkster.

The two Suburban Athletic Conference rivals will clash at 4 p.m. Friday before an Inkster Homecoming crowd.

Robichaud, sporting a 6-1 record, runs up against a 1-6 Viking team. Robichaud is an overwhelming favorite to win its seventh game.

"But, you can toss out the records when these two meet. It's like Michigan and Michigan State - Army vs. Navy. Records don't count because these players are playing for pride," Yauck said.

"This rivalry has its roots in the neighborhood," Yauck added. "Most of these kids grew up in the same area. However, because of school lines, they aren't attending the same schools. When they meet in sports, they don't like to lose. And you never have to worry about getting them up for this game."

Robichaud stayed in the Suburban Athletic Conference title chase last week with a 36-0 shutout over Willow Run. The Bulldogs, led by senior tailback/quarterback Tyrone Wheatley-pulled away from a 6-0 first-quarter lead to a 21-0 advantage at halftime. They scored 15 points in the third quarter as Yauck substituted freely.

Wheatley enjoyed another outstanding afternoon as he scored four touchdowns and scored a total of 30 points. He rushed for 139 yards on 16 carries.

Wheatley opened the scoring midway in the first quarter on an eight-yard sprint. Then, on the second play of the second quarter, the senior tailback broke off-tackle for a nine-year score. He also scored the two-point conversion to increase the margin to 14-0.

Before the initial half was over, Ralph

— Bob Yauck
Robichaud coach

Irwin put the Bulldogs on the scoreboard on a five-yard jaunt. Wheatley booted the extra point.

Wheatley added a pair of TDs in the third stanza as he raced 35 and 18 yards. He successfully converted after each score.

Yauck commended the overall performance of the offensive line, which opened the way for Wheatley's runs.

"They did an exceptional job up their in the pits," Yauck pointed out, "and our defense played another superb game. They held Willow Run to a total of 34 yards."

Defensive tackles Gary Phillips, Ernie Baskin and middle linebacker Sonny Cooper provided the Bulldogs' wall of steel. In the past two games, the defense has yielded less than a total of 75 yards.

The victory kept the Bulldogs in the post-season playoff picture. They must stop Inkster on Friday and get past non-conference rival Dearborn Heights Crestwood a week from Friday to remain eligible.

Inkster will travel to Bay City John Glenn, a perennial power, in its 1990 season finale.

Eagles remain optimistic

It was probably their last realistic opportunity to win a football game this year. And they came up a touchdown short.

With state-ranked Ann Arbor Pioneer next and Belleville their final opponent of the 1990 season, the Eagles of Romulus faced a struggling Milan team Friday night.

And, despite a valliant effort, the young Eagles fell, 20-13. It was their seventh consecutive loss.

"We're disappointed, of course, by the loss," said Romulus coach Dan Henry. "I don't know of a coach around who is ever happy when he loses. However, this team is young. We have a bunch of sophomores and freshmen who, if they continue to work the way they are, will be a factor next year."

Pioneer is next for the fledgling Eagles. The Ann Arbor club is coming off of a stunning 20-0 victory over previously undefeated Ypsilanti.

"Ann Arbor has plenty of talent," Henry said. "Obviously we are mismatched."

The game also will end an era, of sorts, for Romulus. The Eagles will be playing their final game in the South Central Conference. Next year they will compete as an independent until the school can find a more compatible league.

Against Milan, Romulus struck pay dirt first. On their first series of plays, quarterback Bob Bergeron marched his troops 62 yards and, on the 11th play of the series, tossed to split and Rob Thompson for an 11-yard touchdown.

Kicker John Devereaux booted the extra point to give the hosts an early 7-0 lead.

However, Milan came right back after the ensuing kickoff. Blake Nowak culminated a 13-play, 70-yard drive with a three-yard TD run.

Although Milan failed to convert, the visitors managed to come back with a six-pointer early in the second period when running back Ron Hauncher finished off a short drive with a six-yard TD run to grab the lead for good.

Milan made it 18-6 in the third stanza before Bergeron put the Eagles on track with their final score. He teamed with Rich Evans on a 40-yard touchdown pass. The Eagles failed to get the conversion.

Nowak, however, provided the visitors with an insurance touchdown. It came on a one-yard plunge.

Bergeron turned in his best effort of the season. He was on target with seven of his nine passes for 82 yards and two TDs. Thompson, a sophomore, also stood out. He had two receptions for 42 yards.

Eben Smith led the Eagle ball carriers with 73 yards on 12 rushes.

Defensively, Rob Yount, a sophomore, who made his first varsity start, came up with seven tackles and one sack of the quarterback.

Vikings zero in on basketball title

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

With a surprising 65-20 victory over Highland Park last week, Inkster took a giant step toward the Suburban Athletic Conference women's basketball championship.

All-state candidate Leatrice Scott, playing less than 10 minutes, scored 15 of her game-high 25 points to stake the Vikings to a 23-0 first-period lead over the Parkers, who were never in the ballgame after the opening minute.

"I had expected more (from Highland Park)," said Inkster Coach Dwight Hotchkiss. "I am glad we won, but it was too easy, and this can hurt our team in the stretch. We have to prepare for the playoffs and as we know it isn't going to be like this then."

Hotchkiss benched Scott after the first period and used his substitutes indiscriminately as the Vikings built a 33-7 lead at halftime. They went on to outscore their SAC rivals 12-6 and 19-15 in the final two periods.

Although Scott was the only Viking player to score in double figures, the undefeated league-leader also received 15 assists from Tawana Green, who contributed nine points. LaTonya McMillan grabbed 13 rebounds.

On Thursday, the Vikings made it 7-0 in the conference at the expense of natural rival, Robichaud. Scott scored 20 points and Tequan Abney chipped in 17 while Green added 12 as the Vikings jumped out to a 16-8 first period and pulled away 37-10 at intermission.

Inkster will launch the second round of SAC play today at 4 p.m. at Oak Park, a team that shared the 1989 crown with the Vikings.

"Oak Park is tough on their home court," noted Hotchkiss. "I have some concerns about this game. I definitely don't see a replay of the Highland Park game."

Inkster buried the Redskins 60-39 the first time around.

Hurting Romulus plays over injury

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Despite an injury to their scoring and floor leader, Romulus mustered enough scoring power to shoot down Ypsilanti, 42-39, in a South Central Conference women's basketball game last week.

The victory put the Eagles (2-2) in the middle of the SCC pack.

"We have a bunch of over-achievers who work hard for everything they get," noted Romulus Coach Tim Cullen, whose team was picked to finish "dead last" in the conference this year.

The Eagles gave battle to Ypsilanti without Carmita Brown, who has been sidelined with a severely sprained ankle. She is expected to return to the lineup next week.

In a close contest until the last seconds, Romulus managed to overcome the Brakes thanks to their performance at the free-throw line. With 16 seconds left, Nyree Swanson, Ypsilanti forward, was awarded two free throws and sank one to tie the score at 39-all. Then, on their return trip, Kim Hopewell was fouled with nine seconds and sank the two charities to give the Eagles the lead (41-39) for good. Angi Hopewell's charity in the last second accounted for the final point.

Up to then it was anyone's ballgame. Romulus led 9-7 after the first eight minutes, and maintained a slim 19-16 lead after the first half. Though Romulus outscored their SCC rivals 12-10 in the third period, the Braves came back with a 13-11 scoring advantage in the finale.

Sue Molenda kept the winners in the game early as she drilled in the first 15 of the team's 19 points. In the third period, Kim Hopewell picked up the slack as she sank eight of her 14 points.

Earlier in the week, Romulus was overpowered by Garden City 60-36 in a non-conference game.

The Eagles wasted Molenda's 12 points. Angi Hopewell accounted for 11 points.

After a rare Tuesday evening night off, the Eagles will return to the hardwood tonight at home to title-hopeful Adrian. Adrian is 3-1 in the SCC and 11-2 overall. They trail undefeated Ann Arbor Pioneer in the standings.

Van Buren kickers look good in Canadian tourney

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

The Van Buren Township Typhoons' have a date to compete in an international soccer tournament in Holland.

"And we're doing everything we can right now to raise the funds and get our team ready for international competition," Typhoon Coach Dale Travis said. "We have a good bunch of kids and a parental support group that is really supporting us. We're looking forward to the trip."

The Typhoons latest conquest was a victory at the prestigious Henderson Memorial Cup Invitational in Canada.

"It was an outstanding tournament. Our kids played well," Travis said.

To advance to the quarterfinals, Van Buren dueled to a 1-1 tie against Branton. They then disposed of London, Ontario, by a 3-0 score and reached the semifinals, where they battled a defense-minded Guelph team to a 1-1 standstill.

The Typhoons met with and turned back Oakville, 4-3, the Ontario Cup runner-up of a year ago. In the championship matchup, the local kickers shut out Vaughn, 5-0. Vaughn had the distinction of winning the Ontario Cup a year ago.

Van Buren became the first team from Michigan to win the Henderson Cup.

"We're proud of this team and its accomplishments," Travis said.

Made up of players 12 years old and younger, the Typhoons also qualified to compete in the "Little Caesar's Premier League".

In order to qualify, the Typhoons had to enter a four-game challenge tournament in Troy and win.

The Van Buren team swept all four games, beating back Warren, Troy, Royal Oak and Sterling Heights. The Typhoons also became the first Belleville area team to play in the first division of the Little Caesar's Soccer League.

Tiger tankers make it 4 in a row

Despite the absence of some of their more prominent swimmers, Belleville blasted Southgate Anderson out of the Wolverine 'A' Conference waters, 91-76, last week.

The victory provided Coach Matt Kirschner and the Tigers with an impeccable 4-0 conference record.

However, the Belleville record will be placed in jeopardy at 7 p.m. tonight when the Tigers will host perennial power Monroe. Monroe also is sporting an untarnished mark.

"They are good," stressed Kirschner, commenting upon the conference showdown, "and we are without the services of some of our veteran swimmers."

The winner still must contend with Trenton, the defending conference champ. The Tigers will meet the Trojans of Trenton next week.

The first-year Belleville coach said at least one of his blue-chip swimmers is missing from the lineup. However, he would not elaborate.

"It's going to be really tough because we have lost some key people, so we are going to have to have people filling in the void or we're in deep trouble," he said.

against a Southgate Anderson team that lacked depth, he said.

"Their lineup was thin and we had enough depth to beat them," Kirschner said.

Carrie Harrison stashed the 200-yard freestyle event into the Tiger victory column when she touched in first with a 2:42.0. Kristin Curtis also provided sparkle as she turned in a 2:36.0 for the 200-yard individual medley.

Belleville diver Kristin Lucas was awarded a first after she piled up 175.6 points.

Then, in the 100-yard freestyle, Emily Bohler led the field to the finish. The winning time was posted at 1:19.2. Teammate Courtney Sikes was declared the winner for the 100-yard backstroke (1:22.0), while Vivian Overholt turned in a 1:30.6 to capture a first in the 100-yard breaststroke.

Kirschner also put the winning combination into the water for the 200-yard freestyle relay.
